

Epping Gets Five Years after Plea

Federal Court Also Puts Him On Probation

Sentence Stayed So Hodge Aid Can Talk In Circuit Court

CHICAGO (AP)—Edward A. Epping was sentenced today to five years in prison and five years probation for his part in the million-dollar scandal in the state auditor's office.

The sentence was stayed until Sept. 10. The delay was permitted so that Epping may appear in Sangamon County Circuit Court for hearing on state charges of conspiracy in the raid on the state treasury.

Epping, aide to former Auditor Orville E. Hodge, pleaded guilty Thursday to mis-appropriating more than $400,000 in federally insured banks.

Sentence was imposed by Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who earlier this week sentenced Edward A. Hintz, former president of the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., Chicago, to three years on the same charge.

Epping's attorney, Hugh Dobbs, pleaded for clemency. He pictured Epping as "the willing tool of a super-con man."

"It should be borne in mind he was dealing in a most complex situation with a most fascinating personality, Mr. Hodge, a super con man, who gained the confidence of Epping, of Hintz," Dobbs said.

"He (Hodge) had the personality of a climber, and succeeded in selling his personality to the people of Illinois, bankers, legislators, and who one year previously was able to become the leading citizen of his home town, Granite City."

The state auditor, who now is serving a 12-15 year prison sentence, "spent money like a millionaire, had a fleet of automobiles, airplanes valued at $175,000," Dobbs said, "and amid all this was Edward Epping."

The attorney said he believed Epping was guilty of the misapplication of federally insured funds "merely because he was imposed on by Mr. Hodge."

"I believe he is not guilty of what he is charged with in Sangamon County," Dobbs said.

Immediately after imposing the sentence on Epping, Barnes ruled that Hintz' federal sentence might run concurrently with the state sentence imposed on him for the conspiracy charges to which he pleaded guilty. The one-time bank president left immediately for Joliet State Penitentiary to begin serving his term.

Girl, Playing, Hangs Herself

Engaged in 'Bank Robbers' Show At Murphysboro

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (AP)—13-year-old Murphysboro girl, playing bank robbers with three cousins, apparently hanged herself in the loft of a barn Thursday.

The victim, Judy Henry, had written the script on cardboard after a show she had seen on television, Jackson County Sheriff Howard Cheatham said. But her cardboard script did not call for a hanging.

The sheriff said the girl evidently lost her balance or accidentally tipped over the eight-foot ladder on which she was standing. A half-inch rope had been tied over a rafter.

Judy had told her three cousins, all younger than herself, to leave the barn and not come back until "I ring the bell."

The cousins and the girl's mother, Mrs. Elvora Henry, discovered the hanging later.

Mad Reds, Their Woman Discus Thrower Charged with Hat Stealing, Call Off Meel

By JOHN PARRY
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (AP)—Russia angrily broke off a pre-Olympic track and field meet with Britain today because of shoplifting charges against its hat-loving star woman discus thrower.

Soviet Team Manager Konstantine Krupin ordered his team out of White City Stadium after the British Foreign Office refused to intervene in the court case against hulking, 27-year-old Mme. Nina Ponomareva.

She was arrested Wednesday on a charge of stealing five hats worth $4.65 from a London Bargain basement.

She was booked at a police station and released in custody of Soviet Consul General Alexander Startsev. He promised to produce her in court Thursday, but neither he nor she showed up.

The case quickly mushroomed out of all proportions into a minor international incident. Scotland Yard sent out a "wanted" alarm for the fiery-voiced Russian woman athlete and police with guard dogs patrolled the area around the Soviet embassy where she is believed to have taken refuge.

Soviet embassy officials conferred today with Foreign Office officials in an attempt to obtain diplomatic intervention in Mrs. Ponomareva's case. This move apparently failed, and the Soviet team withdrawal from the scheduled weekend track and field meet followed.

Carl W. Stuby Hurt Critically In Auto Crash

Register Printer Left Route 13 on Curve, Struck Tree

Carl W. Stuby, a printer employed in the job printing department of The Daily Register, was critically injured in an automobile accident on Route 13 between Harrisburg and Marion early this morning and is in Memorial hospital at Marion.

Extent of his injuries cannot be determined until he recovers from shock, but his right chest was crushed, he suffered numerous cuts and bruises and a probable broken ankle.

Stuby's car crashed head-on into a tree at the northwest of the main building of The Ranch, east of Crab Orchard. Apparently he had fallen asleep while returning from Marion, as he followed a straight eastward course from the highway instead of making the curve to the right, and there was no indication that he braked his car.

His mother Mrs. Charley Turner, his daughter, Carla June, his brother-in-law, Amos Morse, and J. O. Wells and Curtis Small of The Register were called to the hospital as soon as his identity was established following the crash about 1 a. m.

George I. Cotter, 38, died suddenly of a stroke early this morning at his home in West Frankfort.

He was the son of the late William J. and Martha Cotter and was reared in the Long Branch community. He taught school in Saline county prior to going to West Frankfort. At the time of his death he was employed as a car dealer for Chevrolet company in West Frankfort.

He leaves his wife, Anna, two sons, Eugene of West Frankfort and Billy of Owensboro, Ky.; two grandchildren, Billy Gene and Ann; two brothers, Cecil of Evansville, Ind., and Willie of McLeansville, Mo.; also three sisters, Mrs. Roy Mings and Mrs. Auda Patterson, both of Galatia RFD 3, and Mrs. Walter Lasswell of Broughton RFD 1.

The body lies in state at the Stone funeral home in West Frankfort. Funeral services will be held Sunday at a time to be announced later at the First Baptist church in West Frankfort where he was a member. The pastor, Rev. T. H. King, will officiate.

The prediction was made by the Chicago Motor Club. Sixteen of the deaths were expected downstate and five in Cook County, including two in Chicago.

The motor club expected the greatest convergence of motor vehicles for a Labor Day week-end on the highway this year.

Democrats Hold On to 'ic' in Name of Party

Say Won't Retaliate By Trying to Change Republican Label

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic Party today tightly clutched the "ic" in its name and slammed the GOP for trying to take it away.

But the Democratic National Committee said the Democrats won't retaliate by trying to change the name of the Republican Party. The committee said Democrats like to use that because it "is the brand name by which our opponents' products are known and mistrusted."

The Democrats said they took a "secret nationwide public opinion poll" that shows the voters agree with them. They said the "pol" shows voters don't think much of the GOP "ic" campaign either.

The committee disclosed the results of its "poll" in an "urgent and confidential memo" released Thursday night to party leaders and newsmen. The memo replied to a statement to United Press by L. Richard Guylay, GOP National Committee publicity director, that the Republicans have adopted an "official policy" of shortening Democratic Party to "Democrat Party."

The Democratic committee expressed some surprise that "a grown man named L. Richard Guylay has been assigned the task of seeing that the 'ic' is dropped from all Republican speeches and statements."

Bill Brown, manager of the Limerick Finance office, is inviting everyone in this area to attend the celebration and inspect the new, modern offices. Mr. Brown said, "There'll be gifts for everyone. We have flowers for the ladies, cigars for the men and even bubble gum for all the youngsters."

City Schools to Start Tuesday; Two Vacancies

All schools in the Harrisburg city system will start Tuesday, Sept. 4, at 8:30 a. m., Superintendent Russell Malan announced today.

Mr. Malan also stated all faculty positions, except two, are filled. Vacancies are for the EMH room and supervisor of vocal music and it is hoped these positions will be filled soon.

There are no changes in boundary lines from last year, with all attendance centers drawing pupils from areas as designated in the past.

Children living one and half miles or further from the school they are required to attend will have bus transportation furnished, except kindergarten pupils, who will have transportation only one way as there will be no noon-time bus schedules.

The first day school will be in session until 11:30 a. m. and from 1 to 2:30 in the afternoon as state law requires at least four hours attendance for a legal school day. These hours apply to all except the Junior High school, and its schedule has been previously announced.

Book rentals will be approximately the same as last term, Mr. Malan stated.

The following teacher changes have been announced: Wanda Bramlet, who taught the EMH room last year, will teach fourth grade at Logan;

Lorene Ghent and Catherine Wilmore will teach fourth and third grades respectively at Horace Mann;

Lorene Shewmaker, teacher of the first, second and third grades at Liberty last year, will do speech correction work.

The Liberty faculty is all new, with Cecilia Wagner Jobe teaching fourth, fifth and sixth grades, Dorothy Smith teaching first, second and third and Warren Priest, who will continue as principal at Dorris Heights, also being principal of the Liberty school;

Donald Darnell, interne teacher in the Harrisburg school system last year, will be assistant principal and teach sixth grade at McKinley.

All Nations Have Canal Rights, Says Eisenhower

Stevenson in Chicago, Talks With Leaders

Will Discuss State Governor Situation; Says Has No Choice

By TOM NELSON

United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, just back from a 5,000-mile barnstorming trip which convinced him Democrats "are gaining very rapidly," huddles today with party leaders from five Midwestern states.

The Democratic standard bearer will first talk to a convention of postal workers and then meet with party chiefs from Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio and Illinois.

It was the fifth such parley in five days. Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, left here Monday by air and returned from their hectic trip late Thursday night.

Confers on Governor Also

Stevenson planned to confer also with Democratic leaders about the choice of a gubernatorial candidate to succeed Herbert C. Pashen, who stepped down from the top spot on the Illinois state ticket.

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, was asked on his arrival whether he had any favorite to advance as the party's candidate for governor.

"I have no preference," said Stevenson. "I haven't discussed it with anyone."

Pashen, also Cook County Chicago treasurer, resigned under pressure after a welfare fund in his office was uncovered by the Chicago Sun-Times and came under investigation. Federal and local authorities are investigating charges that banks were forced to contribute to the fund for deposit of county money, and that the fund was used for political purposes.

U. S. Atty. Robert Ticken called bankers who contributed to the fund before the grand jury and said they might be charged with felony.

Stevenson commented on Pashen's withdrawal from the state race, saying "it was the best decision he could make under the circumstances."

Garrison Asks Eligible Voters To Register

Mail Out 30,000 Registration Cards During Past 2 Weeks

County Clerk Don Garrison urges all eligible voters in Saline County to make certain they are properly registered so they will be able to vote in the election in November.

Garrison points out that all who have never registered, those who have moved into Saline county recently, those who have moved into another precinct since last voting or have changed addresses will have until Oct. 8 to register or transfer their registration.

Also any man or woman who will become 21 years of age before Nov. 6 and women who change their names by marriage will have to register.

Within the past two weeks approximately 30,000 registration cards have been mailed to voters from the county clerk's office. Garrison states that every eligible voter should have received a card by this time and any voter who has not received a registration card should make inquiry at his office as there apparently is something wrong.

Personnel of the county clerk's office is anxious to register every voter, but must have the co-operation of the public to get the job accomplished.

Although there are 30,000 names on the official voters registration records in the County Clerk's office, Garrison estimates there are only 25,000 eligible voters in the county.

Many names are still on the record of persons that are deceased or have moved out of the county. And in some instances there are duplications. However, Garrison stated he does not have the authority to remove the names from the record unless certification is made by the judges of the election or a board legally appointed for that purpose says that the person is no longer eligible to vote. This action should be done by precincts, Garrison stated.

Admits Egypt Owns It, Hopes For Settlement

Declares Will Press By Peaceful Means For All to Use Suez

LONDON (AP)—The United States agreed today that Egypt owns the Suez Canal, but said it would press by peaceful means for international control of the waterway so that Egypt "cannot now or in the future jeopardize" its use by all nations of the world.

President Eisenhower told his Washington news conference that in his view the 1888 Treaty of Constantinople gives all nations rights to use the Suez Canal for all times. It does not mean, he said, that other nations own the canal.

Mr. Eisenhower said he was very hopeful Egypt will accept an 18-nation plan to place the canal under international operation. He reaffirmed a statement of two days ago that the plan fully respected Egypt's sovereignty.

The U. S. view was reasserted against the background of diplomatic dispatches from Moscow that reported mounting indications of Soviet preparation for "some form of defense alignment" with Egypt in the Suez crisis.

Despite these reports, the British and French continued a military buildup on the Mediterranean island of Cyprus, where their forces would be readily available for action if the Suez situation worsened.

A five-power committee headed by Australian Prime Minister R. G. Menzies tied up the loose ends of its mission to Egypt and prepared to leave for Cairo Sunday. The committee on Monday will lay before Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser the plan proposed by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for international control of the Suez.

Nasser has said he will not agree to any form of international control, but has agreed to talk with the committee.

Meanwhile, the British merchant Marine officers union threw a body blow at the efforts of Egypt's nationalized Suez Canal authority to recruit pilots for the canal should the foreign pilots now employed walk out.

The decision by the British union means that most seamen from Britain must reject Egyptian employment offers now being advertised in newspapers throughout the world.

In Paris, the French cabinet met to hear Defense Minister Maurice Bourges-Maunoury outline further plans for sending French troops into the Mediterranean.

A battalion of France's 7th rapid mechanized division and a company of the 10th parachute division landed Thursday on Nicosia, Cyprus.

In Cairo, the newspaper Al Akhbar reported that Egypt's chief prosecutor will demand the death penalty for three Britons held on spying charges.

The three Britons were arrested this week on espionage charges and government sources said they had plotted to overthrow Nasser's regime.

Two British diplomats that Egyptian officials said were implicated by the three men under arrest were expelled from Egypt as unwelcome. Britain expelled two Egyptian diplomats Thursday night.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is touring the Middle East. During his absence, the Washington Merry-Go-Round will be written by his junior partner.)

JACK ANDERSON Says:
Smithsonian Slips Brokerage
Business to GOP Finance Chairman: Harriman's Campaign Spending Under Scrutiny;
Iowa Delegate Received
1,116.

WASHINGTON. — No one who has wandered through the ivy-covered, red brick Smithsonian Institution, home of our national relics, would suspect that hallowed institution of political favoritism.
Yet the Smithsonian has slyly turned its brokerage business over to the Republican National finance chairman, J. Clifford Folger, whose partner happens also to be the son of Smithsonian executive committee chairman Robert V. Fleming.

This amounts to a nice windfall paid to the Folger-Fleming firm for handling Smithsonian investments. Involved is a juicy $5,000-000 consolidated fund which the institution invests in stocks and bonds. In the past, Washington's leading brokers shared in the brokerage fees. This policy was abruptly changed, however, after Fleming became executive committee chairman.

The Smithsonian's treasurer, Thomas Clark, acknowledged to this column that all investments —"except in rare instances"— are now made through the Folger-Fleming firm. Clark explained that Robert V. Fleming gives his time freely to the Smithsonian, hence it was considered a "nice gesture" for the institution to do its business through his son, Robert W.

The Folger-Fleming firm simply handles the transactions, however, and has no say-so on how the Smithsonian's funds should be invested. This decision is made by the staid Boston investment counselors—Scudder, Stevens, and Clark.

The elder Fleming, a respected Washington banker, has long donated his services to the Smithsonian Institution. He knew his son's firm handled "occasional"
Smithsonian transactions, he said, but had no idea it received all the business.

Young Fleming, also contacted by this column, explained that his firm might handle two or three deals a month, or one deal in two or three months, for the Smithsonian. He also contended that long before he joined the Folger firm it was collecting brokerage commissions from the institution.
This is true with one important difference: Previously the firm got a small percentage, now it gets the whole works.

HARRIMAN CONFETTI
The Democrats would rather forget about it, but they may be forced to investigate Governor Harriman's fabulous spending at the Chicago convention. It's no secret that he scattered money around like green confetti.

This hot political potato may be tossed to Tennessee's bright, young Sen. Albert Gore, who, as Senate Elections chairman, is supposed to help keep politics clean. He will start investigating election irregularities next month.

Dozens of Democratic delegates complained to Adlai Stevenson's headquarters in Chicago that they had been offered expense money and other favors by the Harriman forces. The charges were turned over to Arthur Grafton, Louisville law partner of Wilson Wyatt, to investigate. For the sake of Democratic amity, however, the Stevenson camp decided to do nothing about the charges.

Governor Harriman spent an estimated $2,000,000 on his shorteived presidential campaign. He kept over 700 people on his campaign payroll, compared to Stevenson's 210 paid workers. Harriman headquarters supplied delegates with free whisky, football tickets, and other favors.

Harriman sought an influential delegate to run his campaign in each state delegation. Those who consented usually were offered
"expense money" and the privilege of keeping their own books.

The approach was made sometimes by Tammany Hall Boss Carmine De Sapio, sometimes by lesser lights such as Senator Mc-Carthy's chum, Roy Cohn.

For example, Iowa delegate Jake Moore acknowledged to this column that he received $1,110 from Harriman headquarters to pay for travel and entertainment.
Most of it went to pay out-of-pocket expenses, he said, for a trip to Minneapolis to court Minneapolis delegates.

HYSTERIC OVER "BRIBE" Nevada delegate Bea Thor went into hysterics on the convention floor after she was pressured to vote for Harriman and several $100 bills were waved under her nose by another delegate. She turned down the offer.

Another Nevada delegate, Mary Wells, gave up a modest room at the YMCA hotel for fancier quarters in the Conrad Hilton. She admitted to this column that Harrison headquarters arranged her Hilton accommodations, but claimed she paid for the room out of her own pocket.

Wisconsin delegate Edmund Dawicki also moved into a Conrad Hilton room that had been reserved by the Harriman camp.
His wife insisted to this column,
however, that Harriman put up no money.

Several delegates from Idaho,
Nevada, Montana and Colorado told Stevenson headquarters that they had been offered travel money by Harriman workers. This column has the list of names in case Senator Gore is interested.

It will be interesting to see whether Senator Gore will now investigate his fellow Democrats, including some who voted for him
for vice president.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

THERE is always a certain amount of haze in the air. Even when the sky is clear something shades the distance so that objects are not always distinguish-able. Most of us do not realize how variable our vision is. We listen to weather reports and hear the frequent statement,
"Visibility, so many miles."

As we ride across the plains we can occasionally see mountains one hundred miles away.
On other occasions the towering heights are not visible until one is within 10 or 15 miles.

The haze in the air is more or less invisible. We give it little thought until we wish to see something clearly, only to find that the object is entirely hidden or at least it is shaded too much for our satisfaction.

These obstructions to view may result from moistures in the air. Haze may be caused by tiny particles of dust floating around us in space. There are really a great variety of causes for the mystifying atmospheric conditions which hamper vision.

Hazy thinking which goes on in the human mind is even less understandable than the haze in the air. It is fairly easy to discover selfishness and the desire for recognition. It is more difficult to probe human thought when the haziness is the result of confusion and inconsistency of thought.

We cannot do the thinking for others but we can clarify our own thinking so that we do not add to the mental fog which shrouds large areas of the world.

Just an Ordinary Boy, But Made White House

DUNNING, Neb. (AP)—Mrs. Vera Terwilliger, Dunning librarian, recalls that neither she nor any other of President Eisenhower's youthful companions back in Abilene, Kan., thought he would "do anything special."

"He was such an ordinary boy," Mrs. Terwilliger said. Mrs. Terwilliger recalled that the President at the age of 16 was a "tall, gangling kid who worked pretty hard, like all of the other kids around town."

His present popularity doesn't surprise Mrs. Terwilliger. She said
"people seemed to like him personally and undoubtedly still do, even if they don't happen to agree with his politics."
She said she never voted Republican "until I voted for Ike."

The inter-com buzzed, and Gentry leaned forward to hear the voice issuing from it.

"Murdered girl in park near Second St. and Second Ave. Reported by Cassidy on beat. Throat is cut."

Gentry jerked his head up to glare at Shayne. "So it wasn't a .45 after all. Another knife job."

Shayne was already moving toward the door, and Gentry hurried after him. "You don't know it's the same girl," Shayne flung over his shoulder angrily. "I'm betting," Gentry challenged him grimly. "You want to risk any dough on it?"

Shayne snorted loudly and went out the side door to his parked car.

Spotlights made dazzling bright the cluster of men gathered about a park bench 40 feet down the path.

Shayne pulled in behind the ambulance and got out. He stood for a moment beside his car as though nerving himself for the ordeal, then strode slowly down the path, his face set and expressionless.

Three policemen standing in front of the bench looked at him silently. A white-coated ambulance attendant knelt beside the bench.

Shayne peered over his shoulder and saw the girl's face. He was steeled for the shock and there was only a faint grimace on his trenched face as he recognized her.

He stepped back and asked gruffly, "How long ago, Doc?"

The kneeling intern shrugged and answered without looking up. "An hour maybe."

Gentry hurried up the path. The police chief looked at him questioning, and Shayne nodded and said stiffly, "I'm glad I didn't put up any money."

Gentry called to him sharply. "Shayne! Take a look at this."

He turned to see the chief holding a sheet of paper in his hands.

"It is Nellie Paulson after all. Here's a receipted bill from the Hibiscus for last week's rent, on room 316. And there's some other stuff in her handbag. It's Nellie all right."

Shayne strode back savagely. "It can't be. We had it worked out that it had to be the Barnes girl."

"Take another look at her," invited Gentry. "You sure she's the one that—"

"Of course I'm sure," burst out Shayne. "I don't need another look. So she's Nellie Paulson. And the same job has been done on her as on the one that came out of the bay. I'd say it looks as though she tried to come back for some more protection from me."

"Yeh," grunted Gentry. "You took the words right out of my mouth. Getting so it's kind of risky being a client of yours, don't you think?"

"Well, now we know who she is anyhow. That gives us something more definite to work on."

"Tough way of getting a positive identification. If we wait long enough, maybe we'll stumble over a few more bodies and get them identified. Then we may be able to figure it out."

Strain deepened the trenches in Shayne's cheeks at the chief's tone of acid sarcasm. He said quietly, "Right now I'm wondering why an ex-G. I. with a .45 under his belt uses a knife instead of the gun."

"For one thing it's a little bit quieter. Let's say he just carries the gun along to frighten private detectives with so they let him walk out into the night to kill off their clients."

"Let's say that," Shayne agreed flatly. He hesitated, rubbing his jaw, moving off the path to let stretcher-bearers from the ambulance go past. "I'd like to get the maid over from the Roney to look at both of them and see if either one are the persons who have been living there as Charles and Mary Barnes."

"Oh, we'll pin down an identification all right," said Gentry bitterly. "As fast as they get killed off, we'll find out who they are."

Shayne continued to disregard his tone. "One thing you didn't get around to telling me back in the office, Will. Did the dead man's fingerprints check with the set in 316?"

"Yes. He's definitely been in 316 since the maid cleaned the room in the middle of the afternoon."

Shayne sighed and started down the path toward his car. Will Gentry clumped along silently behind him. At the sidewalk, Shayne stopped and said, "Let's save the hard feelings until this is over, huh?"

Gentry unexpectedly stuck out his hand. He said, "Sure. Then I'm going to pull your license."

"I think maybe I'll turn it in without waiting for you to pull it, Will," Shayne shook his hand absently and without much vigor. "They found no weapon, huh?"

Gentry shook his grizzled head. "Almost exactly the same sort of wound as the other. One fast slash with a mighty sharp knife. You got any ideas, Mike?" The question was almost an entreaty.

"Only one and it's not much good. Something I should have done before. You still got that picture I gave you at the morgue?"

"It's back in my office."

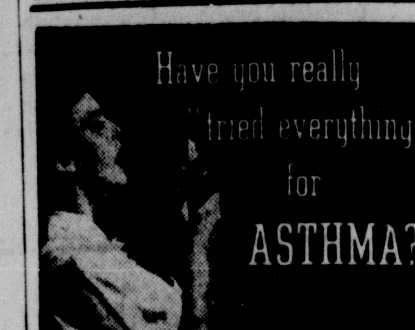

Shayne said, "If you're going back now, I'll pick it up."

McKinley Baptist Revival to Start Sept. 3 with Dr. Norfleet Preaching

A revival meeting will begin Monday, Sept. 3, and continue through Saturday, Sept. 15, at the McKinley Avenue Baptist church, it was announced today by pastor, Rev. J. D. McCarty.

Evangelist is Dr. Frank F. Norfleet, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church in Paducah, Ky. Mr. Norfleet has pastored churches in three states—Arkansas, Illinois and Kentucky—and has been active in both church and civic organizations throughout these states.

In 1943 he received an A. B. from Ouachita college and a B. D. in 1946 from the Southern Seminary. In 1947 he received his Th. M. and in 1950 his Th. D.

He married Miss Virginia Frances Lady of Trumann, Ark., in June of 1945 and they have one child.

Lady Elizabeth, Mrs. Norfleet is past state stewardship chairman of the Kentucky W. M. U.

Assisting in the revival will be Ralph Bayless, singer, who is director of music of the Immanuel Baptist church in Paducah, Ky. Mr. Bayless is a native Tennessean. He graduated from George Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., in 1949, with a B. S. degree in music education. He did graduate work in the School of Sacred Music at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Bayless served as minister of music of the First Baptist church at Madison, Tenn., the Immanuel Baptist church at Fort Smith, Ark., and is, at present, completing his fifth year with the Immanuel Baptist church in Paducah. He and Mrs. Bayless have two boys, Steve and Randy.

Services will begin each evening at 7:30. The public is cordially invited.

Segregation Ban Brings Tension to 2 Southern Towns

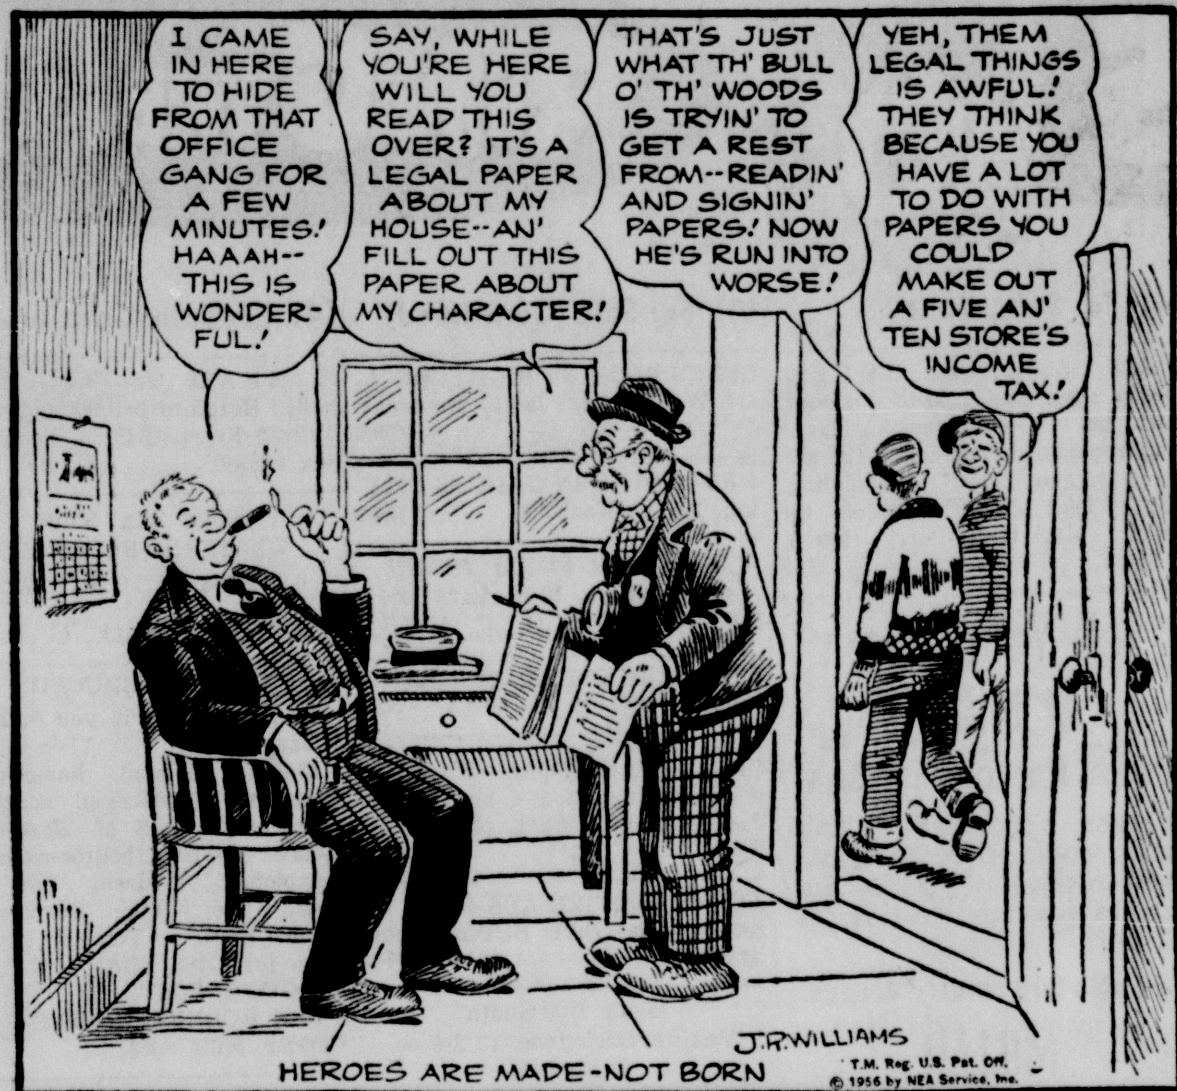

Two southern communities were gripped today by tension over attempts to integrate schools for the first time and in each authorities were braced for possible violence. In Clinton, Tenn., and Mansfield, Tex., court orders had struck at racial barriers with the start of the new school term while surrounding areas retained their historical segregation.

Authorities at Clinton, a town of 4,000 population including few Negroes, blamed their trouble on one man, a White Citizens Council leader accused of fomenting anti-Negro demonstrations.

The defendant, John Kasper, 26, was charged with making inflammatory speeches in "criminal" violation of an injunction issued by U. S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor after repeated flareups of disorder this week.

Mansfield authorities armed officers with machineguns to guard a gathering of 200 whites in an apparently more spontaneous protest Thursday against court-ordered integration.

Wind Damages St. Louis Area, But No Tornado

Storm First Strikes At St. Clair, Mo., Hits Other Places

ST. LOUIS (U.P.)—A severe wind and rainstorm touched off an erroneous tornado warning and caused heavy damage in the St. Louis area Thursday night.

The storm struck a section about 50 miles south and southwest of the city en route to St. Louis. It was first reported at St. Clair, Mo., and it roared through Crystal City, Festus, Pacific and other communities. Trees and limbs were blown down, wiring displaced and windows smashed as heavy gusts hit the city for the second time within the week.

In the city itself, a man and woman were injured when a falling tree struck their car.

Richmond Heights in St. Louis County was deprived of electricity during the height of the storm.

Harry F. Wahlgren of the weather bureau said the St. Louis tornado warning was issued on the basis of a Kansas City Weather Bureau report. He said a Civil Defense airplane spotted at St. Clair saw what appeared to be a funnel shaped cloud and notified authorities.

The riverfront Mid-America Jubilee area was lashed by the winds.

Wright Says Bankers, But Not Banks, Gave To His Campaign Fund

CHICAGO (U.P.)—State Treasurer Warren Wright said Thursday that bankers had contributed to his campaign fund but only "as individuals and not as banks."

Wright made the statement to newsmen as he waited to talk with investigators of the U. S. Senate Banking and Currency Committee. The committee agents have been checking into the welfare fund in the office of Cook County Treasurer Herbert C. Paschen, which resulted in Paschen's resignation as the Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

Wright, however, did not believe he had done anything unethical or improper in accepting the contributions from bankers. He added that he knows "more bankers by first names" than probably anyone else in the state.

Freak Hit by Hoak Gives Cubs Win over Brooklyn; Pirates, Milwaukee Tie

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

The world champion Brooklyn Dodgers, growing about an 11-inning loss to the last-place Chicago Cubs on a "freak hit," found themselves today at the start of a seven-games-in-four-days test that could wreck their pitching staff.

The lowly Cubs surprised the Dodgers, 4-3, in Chicago Friday when ex-Dodger Don Hoak bounced a single off the first base bag in the last of the 11th to score Hobie Landrith from second base with the winning run.

Jackie Robinson could retrieve it, Landrith was home.

Randy Jackson of the Dodgers and Pete Whisenant of the Cubs hit homers as the Cubs gained an even split in the four-game series.

A sudden five-minute rain which turned the infield to mud ended a brilliant pitching duel at Milwaukee between Bob Friend of the Pirates and Bob Buhl of the Braves. Bill Virdon homered for the Pirates' only run. The game will have to be replayed in its entirety, possibly in Pittsburgh, on a date to be picked by the league office.

No other games were scheduled in the major leagues Thursday.

Pro Football Watches Gamblers IN THE Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Gamblers are spying on professional football all the time, Commissioner Bert Bell admitted today, but the wide-awake National Football League has its own counter-espionage system watching the easy money boys.

Just 10 years ago, pro football was staggered when gamblers approached Frank Filchok and Merle Hapes of the New York Giants and tried to bribe them to throw a game. The attempt was revealed on the eve of the championship playoff and both men subsequently were suspended for failure to report the bribe attempt.

With betting on pro football a many million dollar business, the aggressive Bell has tried to make certain it won't happen again by hiring former FBI agents to watch the gamblers in every league city.

UPSTAIRS — George Wilson of the New York Yankees was really kicked upstairs when the Yankees bought him as a left-hand pinch-hitter.

Gamblers' Ranks Infiltrated

"We don't watch the players," Bell disclosed. "We watch the gamblers. Our men have infiltrated their ranks and we simply keep check from the inside of their own operations."

Alertness is the stubby little commissioner's watchword.

"We keep an eagle eye on that point spread," Bert admits. "We get a report on the point spread every day of the week and twice on Sundays to make certain there are no last minute shenanigans going on. If the spread fluctuates at all, we immediately contact the teams involved to find out what goes on."

Late last season, one star player leaving a practice session was accosted by a supposed fan who asked:

"How do you feel?"

"Not so good," replied the player. "I have a pulled muscle and I don't think I'll even get to play Sunday."

Within a matter of hours the point spread had changed by three points.

Bell knew immediately that something had happened. He checked the teams and learned of the conversation which the player hadn't thought important.

Bragan Fined $100 for Conduct Over 'Spitter'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Pittsburgh Pirate Manager Bobby Bragan was fined $100 by the National League Thursday for his "general conduct" in Wednesday night's game against the Milwaukee Braves.

Bragan and two Pirate players were ousted in a ruckus over alleged "spit-balls" thrown by Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette.

Beated Bobby Thomson Likely to Play Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Braves leftfielder Bobby Thomson will probably start tonight against the St. Louis Cardinals despite the "bad knock" he received in Thursday's game.

Thomson was hit on the left side of his head with a pitched ball thrown by Pittsburgh Pirate hurler Bob Friend.

Mantle Resumes Homer Record Assault Against One of Favorite Hurlers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mickey Mantle resumes his assault on Babe Ruth's home run record today against his favorite pitching "cousin"—Camilo Pascual of the Washington Senators.

Mantle has tagged Pascual for four homers this year, more than he has hit off any other pitcher. Going into today's game, Mantle had 46 home runs in 128 games—four games ahead of Ruth's pace in 1927 when he set his record of 60 for a season.

Mantle needs 15 homers in his last 26 games to beat Ruth.

Mickey Mantle Strikes Out on Dance Floor

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankee outfielder Mickey Mantle may be the hottest hitter in baseball, but on the dance floor he's just another out. Mantle competed with three teammates Thursday night for a $1,000 prize in a dance contest on the Arthur Murray television program and lost out. Another Mickey—Mickey McDermott—won the prize.

Elimination of Jet Vapor Trails Studied

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—What to do about jet aircraft vapor trails is a question that's been tossed at the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory here.

The Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics and Office of Navy Research has allotted $30,000 to the lab for a three-year study of contrails—the attention-compelling streaks in the sky that, in wartime, would be a dead give-away to the enemy.

The laboratory noted, in beginning the research project, that contrails "often point a 100-mile-long finger" at planes that otherwise would be invisible.

"As an aid to detection of our aircraft by a possible enemy," said a laboratory spokesman, "they can represent the difference between the success or failure of a mission and life or death of our pilots."
